F23 STICK

The Stick F23 Collection designed by renown designer Matali Crasset, for Fabbian, is a collection of pendant, wall and table lighting that uses Ayous wood for its foundation.

The collection revolves around the Ayous wood module, the shape of which is inspired by that of a pair of pliers: two bent elements stretched by a central support.

F23 STICK

“This detail – explains the French designer, Matali Crasset – is the vocabulary that gives life to a lamp collection based on its repetition. While the texture of the wood permits diffusing a soft and warm light, the repetition of the module creates an effect of unexpected graphics and shadows. ”

It all starts with a single module which behaves like a pliant material: this way, the light source is covered and “tamed” and a veiled light is diffused from the smoothness of the wood.

F23 STICK

The wood module creates shadows and patterns on surrounding surfaces.

F23 STICK

Ayous wood also known as African maple is a hardwood species native to west-central Africa.

Naturally light in color ranging from creamy white to a pale yellow. The grain is neutral creating a smooth appearance.

Ayous is lightweight for a hardwood species and works easily. Making it a good choice for creating the Stick collection.

F23 STICK

The wood foundation of the Stick Collection enables the collection to be suitable for a variety of aesthetic styles including eclectic, coastal, rustic, Scandinavian modern and more.

F23 STICK

Stick will add warmth and a natural element to residential and commercial applications.

The versatile collection can be used in retail, hospitality, restaurants and office design.

F23 STICK

The Stick Collection includes a pendant, wall light, and table lamp. The natural finish of the Ayous wood is complimented by powder coated metal supports and hardware.
